Leading Recession Indicator Flashes Warning

The U.S. bond market officially flashed a warning signal not seen since 2007 on Friday. After months of close calls, the yield spread between the 3-month U.S. T-bill and the 10-year Treasury finally dipped below zero, an event known as an inverted yield curve that has preceded each of the last seven recessions in America.

While an inverted yield curve does not always lead to an immediate economic downturn, it does indicate that one is highly likely within 12-24 months. Be advised.

February Marks Largest Monthly U.S. Deficit... EVER!

Despite the herculean efforts of the Trump administration to stop China's economic dominance through a coordinated trade blockade complete with massive tariffs and other trade disincentives, America's trade deficit has recently soared to new highs.

And now... news that the U.S. just posted its "biggest monthly budget deficit on record last month." Debts, deficits, and denial about economic reality continues to be the way forward in 21st century America. (Bloomberg)

Italy Turns East As China Courts A Divided Europe

Last week, Italy became the first G7 country to sign on to China's ambitious Belt and Road initiative, marking yet another major diplomatic victory for Chinese President Xi Jinping, and yet another blow to U.S.-led efforts to stymie China's inevitable economic and political ascent. Up next, President Xi plans to meet with the leaders of France and Germany in the coming days where more deals may be revealed to the ire of Washington. (BBC)

REPORT: CVS To Sell CBD Products

*The cannabis boom continues to spread across the globe like wildfire. Last week, CVS Pharmacy announced that it will begin selling hemp-derived CBD products in eight states, including: Alabama, California, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland and Tennessee. The national drug store chain will be marketing the topical cannabidiol products, such as creams, sprays and roll-ons, as “an alternative source of relief,” CVS said in a statement to NBC News. # MJ: Time To Take Gains

Since calling a new Position uptrend in the Cannabis/Hemp ETF (MJ) back on January 11 at $31.06, the ETF has soared on growing optimism in the burgeoning industry. Last week, the ETF touched a high of $39.25 (representing a healthy 26% gain in just over two months). We recommend taking at least half of the gains when a position rises 20% and letting the other half ride with a tightened stop loss. We would sell half of any shares of MJ on Monday with a $34.48 stop loss on the remaining half.

UPDATED EVERY WEEKEND

S&P 500 Index - Commentary

The S&P 500 index remains in a confirmed Position uptrend while its Long-Term trend remains in an “unconfirmed” status amid rising economic weakness that threatens this year’s historic bull run. The S&P 500 index slipped 0.73% after a roller coaster week that witnessed more central bank capitulation and the first meaningful yield curve inversion since 2007.

The closely-watched index ended the week at $2800, a key support area. Meanwhile, major overhead resistance looms immediately above, up to $2875. As we have been reporting here in these pages each week, both the U.S and global economies have been showing signs of weakening at a rather alarming pace. 10 years into the slowest economic recovery in U.S. history, total government, business, and consumer debt loads have reached new all-time highs, putting pressure on the ability to normalize monetary policy by the central authorities.
