Trump Concedes To China

Investors and traders were closely watching this weekend's G20 meeting in Osaka, Japan, for signs of improvement in trade relations between Washington and Beijing. In fact, heavy inflows into U.S. stocks late Friday suggested that speculators were bullish on a potential breakthrough in the stalemate. It appears they got more than they bargained for.

On Saturday, we learned that President Trump shifted his HARD stance on Chinese tech giant, Huawei. Until this weekend, Washington had publicly denounced Huawei as a mortal threat to U.S. national security and threatened punitive action against ANY country who cooperated with them. Now, it appears that all of this talk about national security was mere posturing (as we had long told you) as Trump announced plans this weekend to remove the ban on Huawei, giving China what it wanted and making the U.S. look incredibly weak.

With U.S.-China trade relations apparently on the mend (for now), markets are set to roar higher on Monday. However, with rising certainty about U.S-China trade issues, will the Fed still cut rates in July? We will just have to wait and see.

Trump Targets Trade With Vietnam

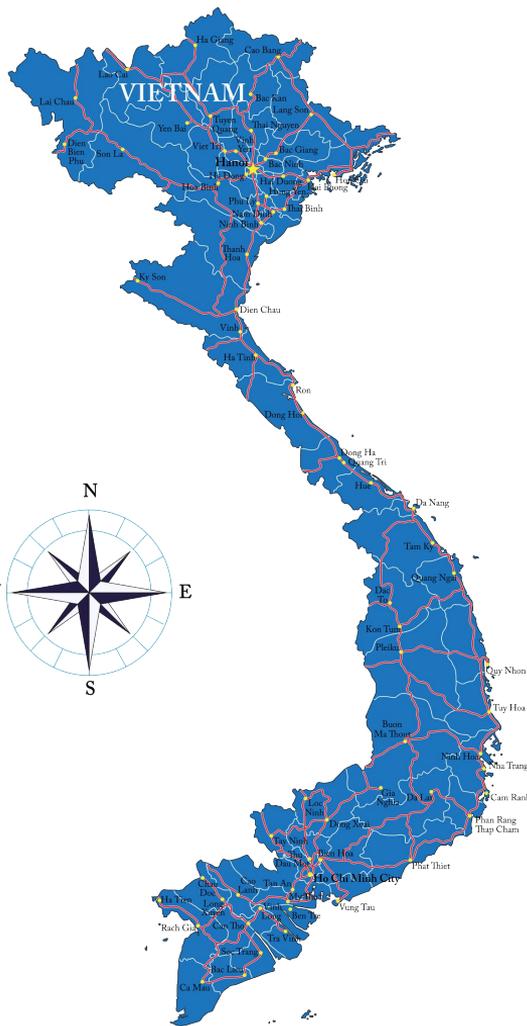

As President Trump heads to the highly anticipated G20 meeting in Osaka this weekend, he took time out of his busy schedule to blast another Asian economy for their trade practices with the U.S.

This time, it was Vietnam.

During an interview with the Fox Business Network, the President called Vietnam 'almost the single worst abuser of everybody' and added that 'a lot of companies are moving to Vietnam, but Vietnam takes advantage of us even worse than China.'

Vietnam has been a key beneficiary of the ongoing trade tensions between the U.S. and China, as many multinational corporations have moved their operations from China to the emerging Asian nation to skirt high tariff costs. Now, it appears, President Trump may target Vietnam with punitive tariffs in order to keep the pressure on China.

Currently, the only way for U.S. investors to access the fast-growing country of Vietnam is with the Market Vectors Vietnam ETF \(VNM\). Despite the current trade turbulence, we are bullish on the future of Vietnam's economy and financial markets.

“We have a treaty with Japan. If Japan is attacked we will fight World War III. We will go in and we will protect them and we will fight with our lives and with our treasure. But if we’re attacked, Japan doesn’t have to help us. They can watch it on a Sony television.”

- President Donald J. Trump, in reference to America’s post-WWII defense treaty with Japan

Bitcoin Soars to $14,000 Before Slipping Back to $11k Support

It was a WILD week in the world of Bitcoin as the world's largest digital currency soared to nearly $14,000 before briefly slipping to $10,500 only to finally find support just above $11,000. Despite Bitcoin's recent slippery price action, it is still up more than 200% so far in 2019 and has managed to erase more than 50% of its bear market drop that began in early 2018. Market Commentary by Jerry Robinson

The S&P 500 index remains in a Position uptrend and continues to be supported by a Long-Term uptrend. The S&P 500 consolidated last week, ahead of a closely watched G20 summit meeting where U.S.-China trade relations will be in focus. The index closed at $2941.76 on Friday just below its former all-time high. Year-to-date, the index has risen 17.35%. Earlier this month, all investors were focused on the Federal Reserve's recent policy shift during its June FOMC meeting. Now, however, investors are mostly settled on that front as markets are pricing in a 100% chance of an interest rate cut at the Fed's upcoming July 30-31 meeting. As we head into the weekend, investors are focused on a potential breakthrough (or breakdown) in U.S.-China trade relations amid a highly anticipated meeting between U.S. President Donald Trump and Chinese President Xi Jinping expected to occur this Saturday on the sidelines of the G-20 meeting in Osaka, Japan. Since trade negotiations... \(Keep reading\)

ETF TREND ALERTS

Every Friday, our research team reviews more than 100 leading ETFs and provides our latest trend analysis to our members. When we detect a new uptrend forming in one of the ETFs we track, we alert our members in The Robinson Report and add the ETF to our uptrend model portfolios. This weekend ETF uptrend alert service is used by hundreds of active traders within our membership community. Currently, we have three primary model portfolios: Commodity ETFs, Global ETFs, and High Tech ETFs. We also rate the leading world currencies here.

On the following pages, you will find this weekend's newest uptrend alerts.
